COLLECTIVE

Dining is a collective experience.
The table is a universal common ground,
a shared space where we come together to enjoy good food and foster relationships.

A handwritten signature in white ink, reading "Monika Lubkowska-Jonas". The script is fluid and cursive, with the first name "Monika" being more prominent and the last name "Lubkowska-Jonas" following in a continuous flow.

COLLECTIVE Dinner Plates Ø26cm/10.25in, Starter/Side Plate Ø17cm/6.75in, Cereal/Soup Bowl Ø15cm/6in, Pasta/Serving bowl Ø24cm/9.5in, Low Glass Bowl Ø35cm, Serving Set in White, Salad Bowl & Ash Servers, Pot & Ash Lid, Butter Dish in Mocha, SAVOY Red Wine Glasses, BEACON Candleholder/Vase H10cm in White, BOROUGH Trio Wooden Board Set

Inspired by the experience of coming together, COLLECTIVE recognises dining as a shared experience. From simple family meals to abundant dinner parties, a symbol of connection and community.

COLLECTIVE is a mixed-material collection of tableware which enhances different environments, cuisines and occasions. Gently tapered forms with relaxed, low profiles bring a contemporary aesthetic to porcelain tableware. The versatile pieces are designed to be used together, selected to complement each other and various settings, allowing individuals to curate their own unique table and reflect their personal style.

From simple family meals to abundant dinner parties, COLLECTIVE offers pieces which welcome everyone to the table.

MATERIALS & MAKING

PORCELAIN

Porcelain is made from a mix of kaolin clay and mineral-rich rock; these essential minerals, including quartz and feldspar, give porcelain its characteristic translucency and strength.

The complex production combines the latest technology with traditional techniques. Natural raw materials from Europe and a double firing process create products that are safe, durable and easy to care for, even in demanding environments.

Plates and bowls are machine pressed and backstamps are positioned and applied by hand. Natural pigments are used to create the glaze.

Cups, mugs, salad bowls and jugs are formed in bespoke moulds. Handles are cast separately and then positioned and applied by hand. Rough areas and uneven surfaces are removed by hand.

Once the object is formed, it is sent for its first firing to harden the body for handling prior to glazing. The object is then glazed and fired again at a higher temperature, strengthening the structure, vitrifying the surface and rendering it impermeable. The backstamp logo is applied by hand before refiring. Pieces are sorted and inspected before they are boxed.

COLLECTIVE porcelain is made in an energy conscious production facility that cooperates with the local community to minimise environmental impact. Waste water is reused and recycled during the production process. Thermal energy from the kilns is channelled into a central heating system, with residual heat used to heat local housing or a local school.

All of our products meet the highest standards of food and materials safety checks ensuring they are durable, versatile and safe to use in both home and professional settings.

Inspired by the potential of materials and conscious of provenance and craft, we work collaboratively with our trusted partners and team of designers. Our combined experience allows us to design to the strengths of each material and experiment with different techniques, pushing the boundaries of production. Designing for the present, using considered techniques giving clarity to our modern design aesthetic, without compromising the future.

MATERIALS & MAKING

WOOD

The ash wood is sustainably-sourced from European forests certified by the Forest Stewardship Council®.

Dry wood, is cut into batons of different shapes and sizes and glued together, preventing warping and cracking. Surfaces, corners and edges are sanded by hand at multiple stages for a smooth finish.

GLASS

Many of the traditional techniques used to make glass are still in practise today. Glass can be melted infinitely without reducing its quality, making it a circular and infinitely recyclable material. Skilled glassblowers work in teams, with each person responsible for a different element of the process—training for years to perfect their craft.

High quality raw materials are melted in the furnace. Glass is gathered, shaped and then mouth-blown into a wooden mould.

The rim of each dome is melted to achieve a soft, smooth finish. The large, tapered bowls are mouth blown from coloured glass, cased in clear. The rims are cut and polished by hand to achieve a flat edge and smooth, modern finish.

ABOUT US

LSA International is a family-owned design studio specialising in contemporary handmade glass, co-founded by Janusz Lubkowski in 1960s London. Our ambition today remains true to our beginnings — to use skilled craft to create thoughtful, considered designs with intrinsic value. Through shared experience, diverse ideas and inherited values, Creative Director Monika Lubkowska-Jonas continues to develop her father's vision, built on a culture of understanding: of design and craftsmanship, of people and product and the world around us.

WORK WITH US

Since 1966 we have created objects rooted in deep consideration of the way people live, with the aim of understanding the purpose and the environment in which our products are used. The rhythms of the world around us provide an endless and evolving source of inspiration—from the seasonal changes of nature to the simple rituals of everyday life.

Conscious of provenance, our experience gives us unique insight into the transformational potential of glass, allowing us to experiment and push the boundaries of hand production while respecting the art of skilled craftsmanship. We advocate for fewer things, made better. Going beyond form and function to create useful, versatile and relevant pieces which endure in their quality and purpose. Allowing us to do more with what we have. A thoughtful and considered approach to design which aims to create products of enduring value. An approach which has seen our products awarded by multiple international bodies, including iF, Red Dot and Good Design.

We are conscious of our responsibility as individuals living as part of a greater collective and continuously consider the impact of products on the environment: how they improve our surrounding and experiences, while minimising their effect on the earth. Our primary material, glass, is infinitely recyclable. All of our product boxes are recyclable, made from recycled card and printed with non-toxic or organic vegetable based inks.

HOW TO ORDER

We offer stock visibility, prompt order processing and visibility of order history. Direct customer and order support through account managers are in place to provide confidence and assistance.

GLOBAL DISTRIBUTION
LOCAL SUPPORT

Product and packaging production is based exclusively in Europe and exacting quality control ensures our products are always delivered to exceptional standards. Warehouses in the UK, EU and US offer efficient fulfilment and our international team offer localised, multilingual support to our customers. Our three dedicated showrooms across the UK and US offer the opportunity to meet our team and see our collections in full (by appointment only).

EXPERIENCE

We work with partners based in over 140 countries around the world, including hotels, architectural and interior design practices, restaurants and bars, galleries and lifestyle concept stores. Our key partners include Raffles, Bvlgari, Four Seasons and The Ritz.

OUR CATALOGUES

We create comprehensive digital catalogues that are updated bi-annually to include our latest collections and additions. These feature up to date information on our full product offering and can be accessed online.

ASSETS

Our online content portal houses over thousands of assets, including dynamic film content and lifestyle imagery, refreshed each season. All content can be accessed and downloaded directly.
